ACCIDENT DESCRIPTION
At 8:28 AM on February 8, 2025, Michael Chen was traveling southbound on North Michigan Avenue approaching the intersection with East Oak Street. The traffic light turned yellow as he approached. Chen accelerated to clear the intersection before the light turned red. At 8:29 AM, Rebecca Johnson was traveling northbound on North Michigan Avenue and began making a left turn onto East Oak Street as the light turned yellow. She proceeded with her turn, believing she had time to clear the intersection. At 8:30 AM, Gary Thompson was stopped at the red light on East Oak Street waiting to proceed westbound through the intersection. As his light turned green, he began to accelerate into the intersection. Chen's Honda Accord entered the intersection on the yellow/red transition and collided with Johnson's Toyota Camry, which was completing her left turn. The impact caused Johnson's vehicle to spin and strike Thompson's Dodge Ram, which had just entered the intersection on the green light. Chen's vehicle sustained front-end damage. Johnson's vehicle sustained damage to the passenger side and rear quarter panel. Thompson's vehicle sustained damage to the driver's side front fender and door. All three drivers were evaluated by EMS at the scene. Chen and Johnson reported minor neck pain but declined transport. Thompson was uninjured. All three vehicles required towing from the scene.
